GREENWOOD CITY

Mrs. Colista Morgan, Corres.
The urge to climb to the ledges and search for the columbine can be most rewarding. This flower has a daring loveliness which stamps it on the memories of even those who are not ordinarily minute observers. It is definitely "Enchantment Among the Rocks" for it secures a foothold in the most precipitous and uncertain nooks, its jewel-like flowers gleaming from their lofty perches. No flower loses more when removed from its surroundings as this dainty little columbine.

From the ledges I pushed back into my forest to find the pines. Here it was entirely unique. I experienced a certain harmonious blending of cheerfulness and gloom. Does this arise from the contrast between the light outside and the darkness within?

How lovely that nature has spread these trees so widely over our earth. The foliage which forms the covering over head is woven closely. When there is an opening the sun pours in with distinct outlines and shadows. These blendings deepen ones feeling and give a rather inspiring sensation.

Underfoot there is a cover of smooth brown matting where the old foliage has fallen. This covering, so compact, prevents growth of underbrush and the space is open under the trees. Here some flowers become more conspicuous because they are not crowded with other species.

As I stopped to look up and up these tall beauties reminded me of pillars rising out of the floor of a magnificent temple.

A crow pensive and fat called from above. Otherwise it seemed silent and deserted. But the soothing power of which the woods and fields know the secret, was there.

Moving on I sat down on a rock for a time just to look and listen. I could hear now the musical notes from "all over" and I could look through an opening among the trees and see the distant hills against a clear horizon.

Beneath, the flowers were indeed charmers; neat little mounds of dillies, those best known and best loved of early flowers, the violets. It seems as if no other flower is so suggestive of the dawning year and so entwined with the days when life is full of promise.

Whose heart has not been gladdened at one time or another by a glimpse of some fresh green nook where "—purple violets lurk, with all the lovely children of the shade."

Then the lonely way took me down over the hills to home; my valley which to me ever possesses a romantic beauty.

TELSTAR REGIONAL HIGH SCHOOL NEWS

GUIDANCE

The selection of subjects for grades 7 through 12 for the coming school year have been completed. Tabulations will soon begin to determine the student enrollment by courses in preparation for scheduling classes and teacher assignment.

The Maine Employment Service Division has announced the starting date of June 23 for a course in "Heavy Equipment Maintenance Mechanic Construction". This will be held at the Southern Maine Vocational Technical Institute in South Portland. The course will be held for ten weeks meeting from 7 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. A trainee must be able to pass a normal physical examination for insurance purposes. GATB test results are required of all trainees; high school transcript indicating study in algebra and trigonometry preferred. This course is available only to high school graduates. Any interested persons may contact Mr. Glazier for additional information and follow-up.

The Junior high school classes in group guidance are in the process of completing the Kuder Vocational Survey which is used primarily in the counseling of students in reference to potential areas of vocational preferences.

The individual student profile may point out vocational activities for which the individual has expressed a decided preference or the results may often serve as a check to determine student's choice of an occupation and determine if it is consistent with the type of thing the student ordinarily prefers to do. It should be pointed out that the Kuder Interest Inventory shows an individual interest in general areas, but does not necessarily reflect an ability to achieve in those areas.

Vocational preference interests are obtained in the following areas: 1. Outdoor: Interest means preference for work or an activity that involves working in the physical environment. 2. Mechanical: Interest means preference to working with machines and tools. 3. Computations: Interest indicates a preference for working with numbers and an interest in which mathematics is involved. 4. Scientific: Interest is a preference in the discovery or understanding of nature and the solution of problems, particularly with regard to the physical universe. 5. Persuasive: Interest

ACTIVITIES

Assistant Principal of Telstar Regional High School, Richard H. McCann, has recently received an invitation from the State Department to attend the National Foreign Policy Conference for Leaders in Secondary Education to be held in Washington, D. C. on June 26 and 27. Ranking State Department officers will participate in the program on current problems and issues in U. S. foreign policy, and there will also be a discussion on the teaching of world affairs.

On Monday evening, Principal Richard Vaughan spoke to the Directors of S. A. D. 44 on the three areas of major concern: accreditation, marking system, and scheduling.

Professor Leland P. Bechtel of Bates College was a guest at Telstar on Tuesday, June 3. He was accompanied by four Bates students.

At the Andover Awards Night, which will be held on June 5, Telstar will be represented by Roger Spagnardi, Administrative Assistant; Richard McCann, Assistant Principal; Frank Glazier, Director of Guidance, and Frank Bean, Instructor of Social Studies.

Those fortunate individuals who attended Telstar's first Spring Concert on Tuesday evening were treated to some excellent musical entertainment. The Mixed Chorus and Women's Glee Club, directed by Mrs. Elizabeth Tebbets, and Concert Band and Men's Glee Club, directed by Glenn Bangs, turned in sterling performances and set a high standard for concerts of the future.

Graduation week activities get under way this Friday with the issuing of caps and gowns to the seniors. A brief review of the week's events is as follows: June 7—Prom; June 8—Dedication; June 8—Baccalaureate; June 10—National Honor Society Assembly; June 11—Awards Assembly; June 13—Graduation.

Grades were issued in the following courses during the week: Mathematics: Grade 7, Mr. Churchill.

is a preference in meeting and dealing with people, in convincing others of the justice of a cause or a point of view, or in promoting projects relating to the field of business. 6. Artistic: Interests indicate a preference for doing creative work with the hands; usually work involving design, color, and materials. 7. Literary: Interest is a preference in reading or creative work in writing. 8. Musical: Interest usually is demonstrated by persons who enjoy going to concerts, playing an instrument, singing, or studying about music or musicians. 9. Social Service: Interest indicates a preference for activities that involve helping or working with people. 10. Clerical: Interest means a preference for work that is clearly defined for you; activities that involve specific tasks requiring precision and accuracy.

Students should be reminded that a knowledge of their interests can tell you only what you enjoy doing; it cannot tell you how well you do these things. What you do well depends on many things besides interest; particularly your abilities to follow-up your chosen interest areas.

The Guidance Counselors are available to discuss with students the results of their Kuder Interest Preference Surveys. Each student has prepared two profiles, one to file with their permanent school record and one for their own reference in terms of additional counseling.

Interviews with parents for an interpretation of the profile may be had by making an appointment with the Guidance Office.

The following seniors have enlisted

College Entrance View Desk. — Ruth Durgin, Telstar Junior Using the View-Desk. To assist students in selecting colleges that meet their individual needs and interests, the guidance department has purchased a unique device, the College Entrance View Desk. This analyzes characteristics common to all colleges and with which students are concerned as they attempt to choose the colleges best suited to them. It consists of 120 criteria cards, such as major field of study, size and location. A student is asked to select the characteristics he considers important in selecting a college and to record his choices. The student then selects the appropriate card for each of his choices, and places them on an especially lighted viewer. Only the numbers representing the colleges having all the desired criteria remain visible. Students and parents are invited to come to the guidance area to use the View-Desk. Any student thinking about college will find it a useful tool.

He Is Just Away

You cannot say, you must not say, That he is dead. He is just away! With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand

He wandered into an unknown land He left us dreaming how very fair Its needs must be, since he lingers there.

So think of him faring on, as dear In the love of there, as the love of here Think of him still as the same, and say He is not dead, HE IS JUST AWAY.
